The Sound of Running Water

The magnum opus of all Osho books is a semi-biographical volume called ‘The Sound of Running Water’ a masterpiece of writing, photography, design, printing and finally, binding in pure silk. This huge tome weighing over five kilos was individually numbered collector's item. This photo-biography of Osho and his work from 1974 to 1978 by Ma Prem Asha is out of print. On surfing the Internet at www.abebooks.co.uk - the world’s largest online marketplace for books with 13,500 booksellers and eight million titles - a copy is offered by Livrenoir of Brooklyn, NY, U.S.A. at US$ 4,475! At the current exchange rate it amounts to a staggering Rs. 202,331.68.

For those who own this book, it is worth its weight in gold!